9. With reference to the NIS publications listed in 4, above, what are the major shortcomings you have found in the NIS? (Please relate these to your own needs, considering adequacy of coverage, reliability of content, currency, length and detail of presentation, and security classification.) The information provided on page 2 might appear to smack of redundancy and the expenditure of minimal efforts. However, this command is preparing contingency plans on selected countries and find the NIS publications invaluable. Frequently the information presented is extremely antiquated and only useful as corroborative information. This applies primarily to Coasts and Landing Beaches, Ports and Naval Facilities and Armed Forces which are subject to frequent changes. A program which would frequently up date the NIS productions would be beneficial to all users. (answer may be continued on the reverse)

10. What specific suggestions can you make for improving the content (including graphics), coverage, organization, and format of NIS units? Keep same format for each country covered. The General Survey is the most widely used for preparation of our operation plans mainly because it is kept current but it does not provide enough detail.
